

MANIFESTATIONS

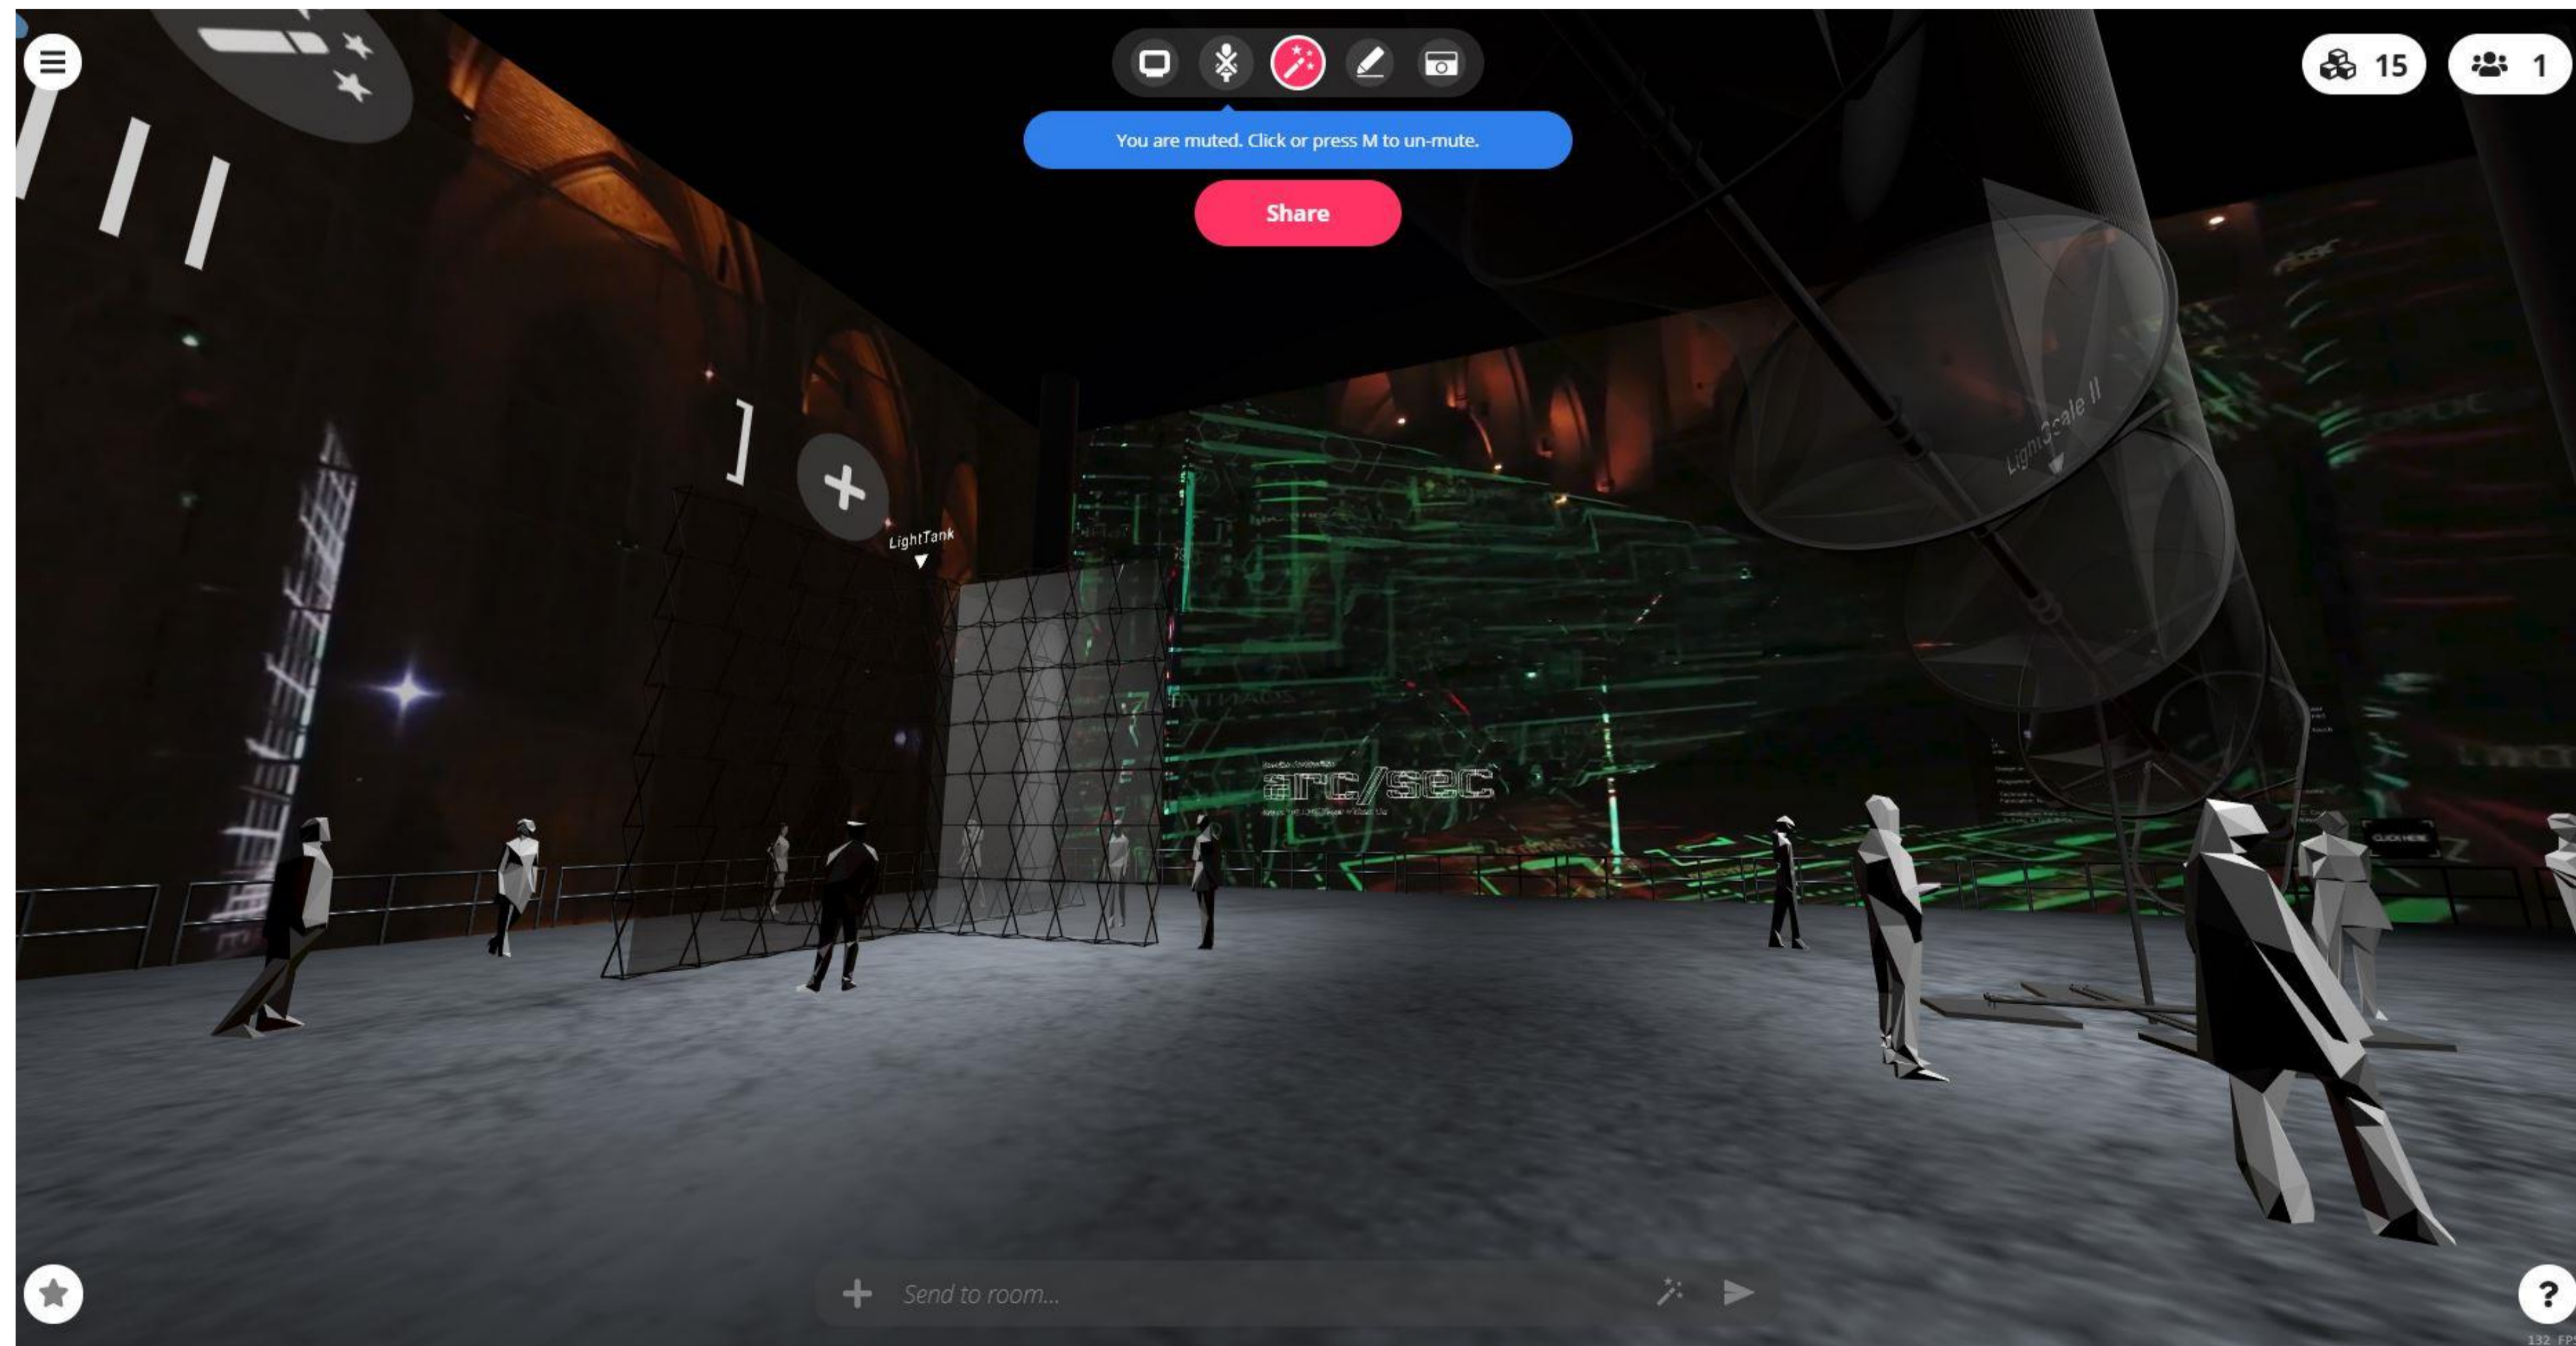

VIRTUAL WORLDS

- Mozilla Hubs: example: <https://hubs.mozilla.com/sqXugQi/arc-sec-hub/>
Advantage: accessible in browser, with computer or headset.
- Sansar: successor of Second Life; Glastonbury and Amsterdam Dance Event also presented there; lots of views via the live streams into Facebook.
Advantage: Yes for headset; excellent details. Disadvantage: not for Mac.
- Second Life: since >decade number 1, went through big quality development.
Advantage: Several worlds, also artists who host their own servers in Open Grid, etc. Own economy. Filled with known artists and movie directors.
- AR Facefilters: you can see these through Snapchat, Zoom, Jitsi and most other video calls, and webcam outputs. Advantage: easy, fun and accessible.
- 3Drooms: new world that was specially created for Dutch Design Week. Actually, not a real virtual world. Feels like re-inventing the wheel. You need to login with personal information to see this.
- Zoom sessions: videocalls. Actually, not really a virtual world.
Advantage: direct communication with the audience

Also cooning. Luckily @dutchdesignweek starts in a few hours and everything is digital ;-) The virtual tours by @Manifestations_ are really cool. In case you not only want to constantly cuddle your cat and watch Netflix.
